

Climate threats

THE Climate Tasmania Group is to be commended for their effort and initiative by writing to our state parliamentary members ("Tassie sits on its hands", Peter Boyer, Talking Point, September 25). The threat of raging bushfires and major floods is only too real. Evidence is mounting that corrective action is required not only on climate change but on minimising the damage of either event in the near future. We eagerly await the results of the feedback the group receives. It would be foolish to ignore the signs of a rapidly changing climate. The memories of the 1960 floods and the 1967 bushfires are still vivid for many. These catastrophes should never happen in this beautiful state again.
